Tommy Jensen resigns from the daily management of Ropox and passes on the baton...

Naestved – 13 June 2022

Tommy Jensen, Managing Director, has decided to step down from the daily management in the company effective 1 July 2022 and Nils Bundgaard is appointed as the new Managing Director of Ropox A/S. Tommy Jensen will be responsible for the company's finances until 31 December 2022, and hereafter Tommy will retire. By the end of the year, Poul-Erik Pedersen, Technical Director, will also take on a new role as Technical Advisor in the company.

Tommy Jensen says: "It has been a fantastic journey with Ropox since I became co-owner in 1997. After Poul-Erik and I sold Ropox to the AddLife Group at the end of 2020, it is only natural that I step down. AddLife has fully met our expectations, and I look forward to following the company in the coming years."

Nils Bundgaard will start as Managing Director on 1 July 2022. Regarding the choice of Nils for the role of CEO, Tommy says: "We saw Nils as the natural successor for the role. Nils' approach to the organisation and his international capabilities allow him to develop the company in the right direction. Poul-Erik elaborates: "We hand over an amazing staff that has been and will continue to be the foundation of Ropox' success."

Nils has held the role of Sales and Marketing Director at Ropox for the past eight years. He is therefore a familiar face among Ropox' global dealer network, and he has extensive knowledge of the Danish market. His strong skills, company insight and leader characteristics made him the natural choice for the role.

Nils says: "I would like to thank Tommy and Poul-Erik for passing on the baton and for AddLife having the confidence in me. It is important for me to build on the fantastic foundation created around employees, products and sales channels. Together with AddLife and the possibilities on the market, we are in a strong position going forward. It will be an exciting challenge that I look very much forward to."
